was referring to the petition filed recently by the board in Federal District court at Little Rock, requesting that the school's "racial integration" plan already approved by Federal Courts and under which the school is operating, be withdrawn.

Decision Postponed

The Board of Education went into executive session after Thomas' appearance and decided to make no decision today on his plan. Board Chairman Marvin Bird of Earle said the plan is a "most serious" one involving time, effort and legal expenses, and therefore must be given "most thoughtful consideration." He said an answer might be given about May 15.

Thomas suggested that Arkansas establish a committee or commission composed of outstanding citizens with Negro representation which would "be dedicated" to the orderly conduct of the voluntary program.

Members of the commission would sit with representatives of individual school districts, study their problems, weigh evidence offered, and arrive at a practicable determination of what constitutes "all deliberate speed" in that particular school district," Thomas said.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus said he would withhold judgment on the plan until he has the opportunity to confer with the State Board of Education. He said it was not important what he or a few individuals think about it, but what "the people" think about it.

Integration Warranted

In communities where circumstances warrant partial or complete integration, Thomas suggested that the commission could help solve the problems in such a way as to "secure sufficient community support" and to make compliance workable.

In areas where "for perfectly valid reasons" integration is not now practicable, Thomas suggested, the commission could promote the improvement of educational facilities for Negroes where needed.

"The commission would operate without legal authority enforcement, but because of its very nature, it would operate with tremendous moral persuasion toward improved race relationships," Thomas said.

Thomas said he would recommend two courses of action in return for court acceptance of a "state plan of voluntary progress."

First, he said he would recommend that the Negro students now enrolled in Central high school finish their year's work.

Plan Failed

"That point in time would end a plan which we have tried, but which did not work," he said. Second, he said he would recommend that the state establish the committee or commission, composed of outstanding citizens with Negro representation.

"If this plan of voluntary action which I propose is to be a state plan then it should be sponsored by a state agency, and it is for that reason that I petitioned a meeting of the board today," he said. "Yours is the only agency primarily endowed with statewide responsibilities in education affairs. To you we look for leadership."

"I respectfully urge that you file an intervention in the action now pending in Federal court in reference to the Central high school case, that you offer to the court this plan not just as a substitute for the Central high school plan, but as a plan which justifies the dropping of a plan which has brought chaos, disorder and confusion to our program of race relations," Thomas said.

Faubus Not Consulted

He said he had not asked Gov. Orval E. Faubus if he would accept the suggested new voluntary integration plan. He said, however, that Faubus had assured him that nothing would please him more than a solution that would have the acceptance of the people.

He added he was convinced Faubus is following the wishes of the people and that he wants to bring about a better way of life for the people of all races in the state.

Illusionist to Appear in Hope April 21

On April 21st at the High School Auditorium at 7:30, the Youth Center will bring to Hope the world's greatest illusionist.

In his "Rocket Girl Fired from a Cannon" act, Mr. Grabel will shoot a girl from a cannon and then have her step from a box which had all the time been suspended from the ceiling in plain view of the audience.

One of his most mystifying acts is when four men come from the audience and place his charming associate "Helene" in a large cloth bag tied by one of the men. Then she is put in a wooden box which is in turn wrapped with a heavy faced canvas. Then a tent is placed over the box and Helene steps from it. When the box is opened, there will be Mr. Grabel where Helene had been.

Another of his acts is where he asks for a dollar bill from an adult in the audience and the serial number is read aloud and copied down by someone on the opposite side of the auditorium. Mr. Grabel will call a youngster from the audience and ask him to choose a lemon from a bowl and cut his initials into it, then the boy or girl cuts the lemon open and pulls out the same dollar bill.

These are only a few of the many wonderful acts that Mr. Grabel will bring to Hope with his full two hour show and freight car load of equipment. Dress clipings are coming in from satisfied audiences all over the south.

By buying a ticket to this show, you will not only be helping your child but seeing a wonderful stage review never before seen in Hope. Tickets will go on sale immediately after the Kiwanis Minstrel so please get yours from some local youth.

Court Holds

Commission Appeals

The State Highway Commission appealed the $100,000 award because it contended the judgment was excessive. The tract which was condemned for a highway was part of a 3,000 acre tract.

The Supreme Court said witnesses for the landowners estimate the damages at $87,000 to $101,000, and witnesses on behalf of the Highway Commission gave estimates of damages from a low of $9,200 to a high of $12,200.

The opinion by Associate Justice Sam Robinson reviewed the testimony of several witnesses for owners of the tract, but countered each with reasons it could not be accepted.

Floyd Finkerson, a Pulaski county farmer, said the farm was worth $150 per acre for cattle raising before the condemnation, and the damages would be about 35 per cent.

No Evidence

"But there is not a scintilla of evidence that they have ever made any money whatever out of cattle," the opinion said.

George McCain, who lives across the road from the property, placed the damages at 20 to 25 per cent, the opinion said. That would place damages at $160,000 to $200,000. However, he did not give a satisfactory basis for such a huge market value for the damages mentioned, the opinion said.

were withheld until relatives were notified.

Capital said it was the airline's first crash causing a death since December, 1949. The airline had flown six billion passenger miles since that crash.

The plane was on a flight from New York City to Chicago, with stops at Detroit, Flint, Mich., and the Tri-City Airport.

Capital Airlines at Saginaw and Detroit declined to discuss the possible cause of the crash or to disclose radio communication between the pilot and Capital's Tri-City office on the instrument approach.

Instrument Approach

The plane was approaching the airport from the southwest on instruments when it apparently undershot the runway and plunged into a muddy corn field.

Private pilot Harry Shafer of Flint was sitting in another plane on the runway and saw the crash. "It hit the ground and blew up," he said. "There was a flash and then the flames."

The wreckage burned for more than two hours. Bodies were placed on stretchers and carried through mud and standing water on foot at first. Later they were loaded onto a four-wheel trailer which was pulled to the edge of the airport by a bulldozer.

MIDLAND, Mich. (UPI)—

A juggling of plane schedules sent 18 passengers to their deaths on the plane which crashed Sunday night at Tri-City Airport, killing all 47 persons, and investigators went to work today to unravel the confusion.

Capital Airlines reported fast-shifting snow and rain showers forced it to cancel and then reschedule landings at the air port of the Viscount Flight 67 which crashed, and Flight 959 going to Milwaukee.

Civil Aeronautics safety inspector Russell Laubange of Detroit and Inspector Thomas Walsh, Detroit, said, "We will look into every aspect of the flight, including the flight pattern, weather and crew."

Included in their investigation will be the ironic brief closing down of Bishop Airport at Flint and Tri-City Airport during the brief snow and rain flurries.

Seven passengers waiting to board the doomed ship at Tri-City early Sunday night drove to Flint, 30 miles away, to board it because they were told weather would not permit landing at Tri-City.

And others waiting at Flint for Flight 959 to Grand Rapids and Milwaukee took Flight 67 to Tri-City, because they were told weather at Bishop would force Flight 959 to land at Tri-City instead of at Bishop.

Fortune smiled on two others at Flint. These two passengers got off the plane to give their suits to passengers going through to Chicago or Milwaukee on one of the two flights.

The pilot of the plane, Capt. William J. (Goel) Hull, 44, Westwood, N.J., was a "million mile" 17-year veteran of many an instrument approach such as he was making Sunday night when the plane landed far short of the runway.

Cooler Tonight Is Forecast for Arkansas

By UNITED PRESS

The forecast calls for cooler weather tonight with scattered frost in the south portion. Skies will be partly cloudy in the northeast portion this afternoon, other wise mostly fair through Tuesday.

Highs today will be in the 50's north to 70's extreme south, lows tonight between 32 and 36 degrees in the north portion and 35 to 40 degrees in the south portion, and high Tuesday will be in the 50's north to the 70's south.

High winds buffeted Easter bonnets in Arkansas and dropping temperatures chilled the wearers. The high in the state Sunday was 73 at Arkadelphia, the low this morning 35 at Fayetteville.

The extended forecast — Monday through Saturday — said temperatures will average two to four degrees above normal maximum of 72 and the normal minimum of 50 degrees, with mostly minor daily changes. Precipitation will be moderate to heavy with scattered thundershowers about Wednesday and Saturday.

At 11 a.m., today, skies were cloudy at Walnut Ridge, Flippin and Memphis, and clear elsewhere in Arkansas. Flippin had 45 degrees, Walnut Ridge and Fayetteville 47, Memphis 48, Little Rock 52, Fort Smith 53.

Cuban Army Beats Off Rebel Group

By FRANCIS L. McARTHUR
United Press Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI)—The Cuban army reported today it had beaten off an apparent attempt to penetrate Santiago by one rebel force and was pursuing another group in the northern part of Oriente province.

An army communiqué also said that a "plate plane" of undisclosed nationality was shot down in the foothills of the Sierra Maestra, the stronghold of rebel leader Fidel Castro.

The government announcement came as Castro's revolutionary general strike was reported to have paralyzed the rail hub of Camaguey—a move that would cut Cuba in two and isolate the eastern third of the island.

The rural guard outpost at Don Palmas on the outskirts of Santiago "valiantly repelled" an attack by seven truckloads of rebels in the dawn hours of Sunday, the communiqué said.

Our family deeply appreciated the help and sympathy of our friends and neighbors during the hours of our deep sorrow and loss.

Weather Bad Over the U. S. on Easter

By UNITED PRESS

Easter paraders plowed through snow drifts in the North and dodged rain drops elsewhere in a weekend of weather violence throughout the nation.

A near blizzard howled across northern Wisconsin and Michigan Sunday, dumping up to a foot of snow and piling up four and five-foot drifts.

Earlier, an Easter eve snowstorm whipped Western Nebraska, forcing officials to call out snowplows to battle seven-foot drifts.

The storm was part of a pattern of weather violence that also touched off tornadoes in southern Illinois late Saturday, killing one man and injuring 11 others.

Rhineland, Wis., was blanketed with a foot of heavy, wet snow when snapped power and telephone lines, blacking out sections of northern Wisconsin.

Winds Cause Giant Drifts
Telephone and electrical service also were disrupted in the Upper Michigan peninsula and parts of northern Lower Michigan by the surprise snow storm.

Highways were snow-clogged and hazardous, but there were no reports of marooned motorists. Winds as high as 40 miles per hour accompanied the snow and whipped it into giant drifts. Temperatures ranged in the low 30s and gale warnings were issued for Lakes Superior and Huron and northern Lake Michigan.

In the far West, although rains continued to pelt California, Easter brought some hope that the state's most disastrous spring deluge might be easing up.

A weekend rain storm pushed eastward today, and forecasters said showers only were expected in central California today.

The record rains have killed at least 12 persons and caused more than 12 million dollars in damage through floods and landslides. Floodwaters inundated more than 100,000 acres of rich central California farmland today, and more than 2,000 persons in the Stockton area were homeless.

Cancel Easter Parades
California disaster officials warned that reservoirs are full and the weather during the next day or two will be critical. They said the state "can't take any more heavy rains without tremendous damage."

The East also faced a flood threat as the Weather Bureau in Albany, N.Y., warned that heavy rains and melting snow has brought a rapid rise to streams in eastern sections of upstate New York. The Bureau warned interests in the area to prepare for possible flooding.

Rain hit most of the country Sunday, forcing cancellation of some sunrise services and traditional Easter parades.

The colorful parade on New York's Fifth Avenue was washed out by a record Easter rainfall. Weathermen said nearly two inches of rain fell on the city, nearly one-half inch more than the previous record of 1.53 inches on Easter, 1906. The rain flooded

McWilliams, Tom O'Steen, Franklin Flowers, and Gene Thompson; Scripture-reading by Margie Waddell; Choral response by the girls' choral group.

The Easter Parade was done in pantomime with Bill Land of the Sixth grade furnishing the background music, Ruth Ann Ferguson, Joyce Allison, Gary Wayne Poole and Ronnie McWilliams, did the drawing and painting of the scenery and all the Fourth grade girls designed, created and modeled Easter hats.

Peter Cottontail was sung by the entire student body while puppets at the shadow screen acted out the story of the song. The art work for this number was done by the following students:

Setting, Doyle Brown and Freddie Verser; Stick puppets, Jimmy Rowe, Gary Rogers, Freddie Cox, David Flesher, Tommy Cox, Ralph Byers, and Glyn Wilson. Larry Rothwell acted as property manager and was assisted by Gerald Sisson and Doyle Brown.

Mrs. Hugh Shidder is teacher of the Fourth grade and directed the program. First and Second grade children also created original Easter bonnets and were asked to parade in them for the pleasure of the other children.

When winter's long siege is over, a girl likes to get her hair in condition for spring. She may need hot oil treatments, shaping and cutting and a permanent. This girl gives herself a hot oil treatment at home (left), using pure petrolatum hair tonic. The bottle releases just one drop at a time so that she can apply tonic directly to her scalp. Next step is massage, followed by steaming with a hot towel. For evening, her hair is combed back and up (center) for a slightly sophisticated look. The hair is cut in tapered layers of equal length all over her head. For her new spring hat, she combs her hair (right) into bangs and cheek curls for fluttering softness. This hairdo is easy to set.

DOROTHY DIX

Mom's TV Addiction Blurs Girl's Romantic Picture

Dear Dorothy Dix: My mother has televisionitis! She takes a nap in the living room every afternoon which makes it impossible for me to entertain my boy friend (even just once a week). It would take an act of Congress to get her to go to bed early. The Late Show, then the Late, Late Show, when it's on, are driving me crazy. The days of "daughter being courted in the parlor" are long gone, thanks to TV. I'm sure there are many other girls who have this problem. Mothers, who once went to be religiously at 10 or 11 p.m. now stay up to greet the dawn. How are we girls ever going to get our boy friends to "pop the question"? If we can't be alone, it's like New Year's Eve every night in the week. Television is ruining my romance. What can I do?

TRULY DESPERATE

Dear T. D.: You're quite right that many girls share your problem. But marriages are still formed in spite of it, proving that romance is indeed a difficult thing to squelch. It's time all TVs were relegated to rooms other than the living room. In your case, I'd suggest mom's bedroom. If there's a spare room in your house, make it the TV room, otherwise shove the monster in with mom so she watch it and leave the rest of the family in peace.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a girl of 19 in love with a young man of 24. He has been married and divorced twice, has one child by each previous marriage. I love him dearly and would like to know how to assure the success of our marriage. BERNICE

Dear Bernice: A young man who is only 24 and has already established a record of broken marriages, can scarcely be called good husband material. Surely you can do better. To begin married life with a man who has two children thousands of basements and roads. Weathermen said rain was expected to end today in the middle Mississippi Valley, but continue over the eastern Great Lakes region, the Ohio Valley and along the Eastern Seaboard from Virginia northward.

A snow warning was out for northern Maine as the midwestern snowstorm pushed eastward.

Fair weather was seen for the Gulf Coast, the upper Mississippi Valley and much of the Plains.

to support would be foolhardy indeed.

Dear Dorothy Dix: The course of my romance has many obstacles. One is that the man is 26 to my 32, and secondly, we're of different religions. I know neither of us will ever change religions but would like to keep him as it's very difficult for a girl past 30 to find an eligible man. I know I'll have to work after my marriage as his job isn't very lucrative.

Dear Faith: The one object which you keep firmly fixed before your mind at all times is a wedding ring. To get one, you'll risk a lifetime of unhappiness. Honestly, Faith, and unhappy marriage is far worse than single blessedness. Your violent quarrels over religion are enough to indicate the grave unsuitability of the proposed marriage, and the other objections are only slightly less important. Things can't be so hopeless that you'll grab any man who comes along with a proposal. Although it's true a girl doesn't have too many matrimonial chances after 30, she is by no means a hopeless case. Buck up, and keep looking.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My mother is a widow and rents rooms. Two years ago she took in another widow with a leopards son. Because the lady had a tale of woe to tell, mom gave her two rooms at greatly reduced prices. We later learned that the woman had quite a bit of money—in fact, more than we have. When they left, the rooms were in a shocking state, but we were glad to be rid of them at any price. How can we avoid such entanglements in the future? ELMIRA

Dear Elmira: Did it ever occur to your mother to ask for references, or to investigate them? No woman in your mother's position should take people into her home without a pretty thorough investigation. References from former neighbors, his former pastor, and business associates should be required.

State Death Toll on Easter Reaches 10

By UNITED PRESS

At least 10 persons died in accidents in Arkansas this Easter weekend, a United Press survey showed. Seven of the fatalities were traffic-caused, two were drownings, and the other a fishing accident.

An 11-year-old Norphlet girl died when a car in which she and six other young people were riding went out of control on a county road near El Dorado and overturned Sunday.

State Troopers August Piorani and Wilo Piarham identified the victim as Sue Anderson. Piorani said the group was returning from Sunday school.

The driver of the car, Stanley L. Brimley, 22, of Norphlet, his 16-year-old wife Billie Ruth, and Brimley's two nieces, Marilyn Brimley and Judy Louise Brimley, both 4, were hospitalized.

Two of Brimley's sisters, Rebecca Brimley, 6, and Gay Brimley, 15, were treated and released.

The troopers said the car came to rest in a ravine 284 feet from where it left the road, seven miles north of El Dorado.

Three Killed
Another car overturned Saturday on highway 90 east of Reclor, killing Miss Shirley Jean White, 21, of Augusta and two Indiana men. The Indians were Clifford Miller, 30, of Kokomo, Ind., and Joseph Barnett, 28, of Fort Wayne, Ind. Barnett died at a Kennett, Mo., hospital while Miss White and Miller died enroute to the hospital.

A Springdale minister, the Rev. Olaf Plann, 45, and 18-year-old William Yandell of Wadron, died, when their car collided with another car near Mona on U.S. highway 71 Saturday.

Jennifer Lewis, 3, of Fort Smith was killed when she ran into a car passing her parents' home Saturday.

And a freak accident on a fishing boat claimed the life of a 12-year-old Hot Springs youth Saturday.

The victim was Stanley Duke, who was struck on the side of the head by a lead fishing sinker. He collapsed at home some five hours later and 1 1/2 hours later was dead. His mother, Mrs. W. L. Duke, said he never regained consciousness after his collapse at home.

Boat Capsized
John Stuckey of Bauxite drowned in the White River below Pull Shoals dam Saturday when high waves capsized a boat he and his brother were riding in.

State Trooper Fount Allen said Stuckey was in the boat with his brother, Walton Stuckey of Benton, when the boat overturned.

Sheriff Leonard Ellis said a 17-year-old divorcee, Mrs. Ruth Ann Swindle, drowned in Lake Hamilton Saturday when the boat she was in capsized.

Two women with her, Dennis C. Reet, 29, of Jonesboro, Tenn., and Jessie O. Ratliff, 25, of Hurley, Va., were taken to the Hot Springs Army-Navy Hospital for treatment.

PORTER "SATISFACTORY"
NEW YORK (UP)—Song writer Cole Porter's condition in Harkness Pavilion of Presbyterian Hospital was "quite satisfactory," the hospital reported today. Porter, who suffered from osteomyelitis since a fall from a horse in 1937, had a leg amputated Thursday.

VISIT CALLED IMPORTANT
ASUNCION, Paraguay (UP)—President Alfredo Stroessner told the inaugural session of congress Wednesday that U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon will visit here, becoming Mr. Nixon's first visit to the country. He said Nixon's visit will be "an event of extraordinary importance" for Paraguay.

Children on Trestle, Train Kills Five

MACDONA, Tex. (UP)—The Southern Pacific Sunset Limited roared around a bend northeast of here Sunday on its Easter Day run to El Paso and killed five children who were snapping pictures from a railroad trestle.

Three of the children were knocked over the railing into the McAlister River, 18 feet below the bridge. The other two were found on the three-fourths mile long bridge by their parents, horribly mangled.

Engineer J.W. Enforth, speeding the 12-car passenger train around a bend of 60 miles an hour, couldn't see the children until it was too late. He yanked frantically on his horn and slammed on the emergency brakes at the same time and the train stopped with two cars still on the bridge.

The children, ranging from 11 to 16 years old were on an Easter picnic with their parents below the bridge. Their parents warned them not to go up on the trestle because the board in the tracks made it too dangerous.

But they went up anyway and started taking pictures. When they saw the engine bearing down on them they froze, Enforth said, and then started to run. But they had gone too far on the bridge to get off in time.

A member of one of the families said he saw the train before the children did and screamed at them to jump off but his cries were drowned out by the roar of the train.

Dr. Robert Hausman, Bexar County medical officer, identified the dead as Anna Maria Ramirez, 13; Diana Garza, 11; Laura Garza, 10; and Louis Garza, 12. The Garza children were brother and sisters.

Anna Maria's sister, Norma Ramirez, 15, died at Lackland Air Force Base Hospital in San Antonio less than nine hours after the tragedy.

MAKES DIFFERENCE
Hops impart the characteristic flavor to ale and beer. Ale has a tartar taste than beer because it contains more hops and because of a higher degree of fermentation.

The Matinee Theater May Be Doomed

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Television's hot-shot color daytime show, "Matinee Theater," is doomed to go off the air in June unless home viewers come to the rescue with an avalanche of mail.

The program's success since John Conte, president of "Matinee's" 10 million viewers, almost all of whom are housewives, to write letters of protest to his bosses.

"Send your letters to Robert Sarnoff, president, ABC Television, New York City," Conte requests.

A Personal Tragedy!

"It would be a deep personal tragedy to me if the show goes. Our program is a part of the daily lives of millions of people. Unless we're fortunate enough to have an overwhelming and immediate response the show is finished.

"Once we go off the air daytime programming will be taken over by soap operas."

Somewhat sassy itself, Matinee has presented 600 dramas during its 2 1/2 years on the air. It employed about 3,500 actors a year, and its demise would be a blow indeed to many actors.

"Matinee" had the distinction of being the only five-day-a-week color show on the air.

"That adds another complication," Conte said. "Color act owners have relied on our program when RCA repatriates arrive to adjust their sets."

Has Sponsor Trouble

"The replacement don't work at night, and without a daylight color program there will be no opportunity to assure the right kind of service. Color TV salesmen will have their problems, too. They won't be able to demonstrate color sets during the day unless some other color shows are put on the air."

Conte points out that his plea to viewers is not without precedent. Four years ago Gary Moore received word that his daily show was going to be axed. Moore appealed to his viewers for help. His feminine fans flooded the network with missives and Moore was back in business.

"Matinee" is in hot water for the usual TV reason, sponsor trouble.

If the show does perish and indications are it will, two soap operas are scheduled to replace it.

Prescott Girls Win Honors With Twirling

WINNING honors Friday at the National Twirlers Contest at Forrest City were (left) Amelia Harrell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Harrell, and Polly Ann Sherman, right, daughter of Mrs. Marvin M. Sherman of Prescott. In the Arkansas contest first place was won by Betty Rae of Texarkana. Amelia won third place while Polly Ann tied for fifth. The girls placed second in the twirling duet. In the strutting contest Polly Ann was one of five finalists. Both girls were invited to enter their duet at Memphis in the West Tennessee State Champion on April 11.

STALIN'S SUCCESSOR—For the first time since Josef Stalin died in March, 1953, the supreme authority of Soviet Russia rests in the hands of one man—Nikita S. Khrushchev. The 62-year-old Ukrainian, who already had held the post of Secretary General of the Communist party, became head of both the party and the country when the Supreme Soviet (parliament) elected him premier by acclamation. Khrushchev, who is equally adept at smiling or snarling, replaces Nikolai A. Bulganin, who "resigned" the premiership. Stalin had held the two top posts from 1941 until his death.

THE STORY: Lily Barker Alderton has just learned that rustlers are stealing hundreds of head of cattle and her husband, a candidate for governor, is doing nothing to stop them. Nor will authorities in Barker's attempt to bring the thieves to justice.

XIII The flush that had been on Lily's cheeks when she entered the bank was now deeper. "What is the salary of a governor?" "In this state, four thousand a year." "And Jeff has spent what? Twenty — five — fifty thousand?" "More than that." "That's ridiculous. To get a $4,000-a-year job! Jeff's neglected the ranch. We've lost a thousand head of cattle to rustlers in the past few weeks." "Rustlers? I thought rustling went out of style some years ago." "It's back," Lily drew a deep breath. "Uncle Marsh; how does one go about hiring gunfighters?" "Beds blinked. 'Now wait a minute, Lily. You're not thinking.' "Pete Rawlins has been bringing in gunfighters," she said tartly. "He's brought in a man named Paul Partridge, some others probably." "You've been hearing some things, I can see." "I have. I've also heard the name of a gunfighter, someone who's supposed to be as good as Paul Partridge. A man named Tom Fargo. I want to send for him."

Eads began to drum on the top of his desk with his fingers. A frown twisted his features. "Gunfighters are a little out of my line, Lily," he finally said. "But..." She looked at him eagerly. "Yes?" "It just happens that I have heard of this Tom Fargo. I think I even know where to reach him."

Her chin came up. "Lobo is mine, Uncle Marsh. I'm going to fight for it. Give me this gunfighter's address."

Eads was sorely tempted, but resisted the inclination to confide in her. "It escapes my mind right now. But I've got some papers at home — newspapers. Say this Fargo mentioned in one of them. I'll look through them. Tell you what, wait the letter and give it to me. I'll address it and mail it."

"That'll just take more time. I want to get off a letter today. I'll go today. Mmmm. I'm almost certain that Fargo doesn't live too far from Barker's. He'll get the letter soon enough. Here..." Eads opened a drawer and took out some stationery. "Write your letter now."

Weber, his face smugged from soot and phlegm, was working over the ruins of the burned-out barn when Lily Alderton rode up to his house and dismounted. "You're going to rebuild?" she asked. "If I decide to stay."

Johnson Wants Help With Petitions

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Former state senator Jim Johnson of Cross-still called on the "moderates" this weekend to join in circulating petitions for his States Rights Commission constitutional amendment.

Johnson in a newspaper advertisement said if the moderates read his petition, they will find law and order can be maintained while segregation is being maintained.

"Time will prove whether these people are sincerely interested in law and order and segregation," he said. "If they take an active interest in the states rights amendment, they will then show they are for law and order and segregation. In action on their part will tend to show that they are for the law and order of Federal bayonets—the kind of law and order which leads to forced race-mixing in our public schools."

The two-page advertisement listed the petition and had space for persons to sign.

It explained the 12-member commission, if set up, would have the duty of protecting "The overall duty of the state... and her sister states from encroachment... by the government of the United States or by any government of any nation... and to resist the usurpation of the rights and the powers reserved to this state or her sister states."

Under Johnson's proposal, the tages of replacing "Sully" in mid-season.

"Audience viewing habits have already been established. We suffer, too, from not having a regular star on the show. But there are some plus factors. We precede Steve Allen by a half hour, and 'Maverick' has proved that Sunday night audiences will watch dramatic shows."

"And our program is the only TV anthology with a formula. Interest Mounts Quickly."

"Within the first minute of the show we establish an emotional or physical problem around a central character — and then follow him through until it is solved. Once the viewer catches the first 60 seconds, he's hooked."

Example: A dying man confesses to a priest he has planted a bomb somewhere in the city, then expires before giving the location.

Expresses Optimism

"After nine weeks we managed to top 'Earl' in the Trendex ratings last year, and I think we'll do well again this season. It won't be long before the opposition begins to return, and we will have all new shows."

Simon also gives reasons for the title change.

"We decided that 'Panic' frightened away more people than it attracted," he said. "The show is based on the premise that no one knows what will happen to him within the next 10 seconds of his new feat, adventure, riches or even death may befall him in an instant."

He then ticked off the disadvantages of replacing "Sully" in mid-season.

"Rawlins?"

"Or someone else."

"Please," Lily said worriedly.

"Let's not quarrel again."

"I'm not trying to quarrel!"

Weber said patiently. "Pete Rawlins has tried to buy this place from me and so has your husband. I don't know if there's a connection."

"There isn't, believe me there isn't. Lobo has lost a thousand head of steers in the past two weeks. I'm almost certain that they went to the Rawlins place. What you said about — about Rawlins getting in gunfighters bears me out. There's no connection between Jeff and Rawlins. I can assure you of that."

"Rawlins is Denver's brother-in-law and Jeff is being managed by Denver."

"You don't think highly of Mike Denver?"

"Does anyone?"

"All right, Tom," conceded Lily. "To tell you the truth, I'm not overly fond of him myself. But I don't think he's in league with his brother-in-law. Cattle rustling is not his style—not these days. It's Rawlins, however, and what you've told me about his bringing in gunfighters indicates that. Well, I've decided that two can play at that game and I've sent for a gunfighter."

He stared at her.

"The man we talked about yesterday, Tom Fargo. I've written to him."

"You've written to Tom Fargo?"

"Mr. Eads has his address. He's mailing the letter to him. He said he wasn't too far from here and I ought to get a reply from him in a few days."

"Unless he's already hired himself out to Rawlins."

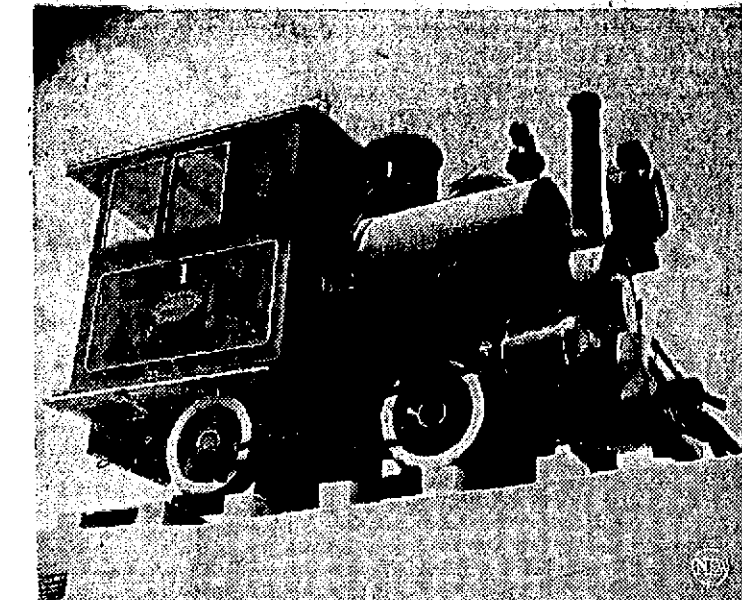

"He may switch even then. I made him a very good offer. In the meantime — She paused — 'The real reason I stopped by is — I want to offer you a job.'"

He looked at her steadily. "Doing what?"

"Jeff's away a lot and he's going to be gone a great deal from now on. Fred Garp is old. I thought perhaps you'd be interested in being foreman of Lobo."

He shook his head. "No."

NO. ONE IN THEIR HEARTS—The people of Medellin and the Antioquia district of Colombia have a soft spot in their hearts for this little iron horse. The diminutive 0-4-0 served Colombia's railroads from 1875 to 1928 and has since been mounted on a pedestal in Medellin. From its perch the tiny teakettle surveys a new era in Colombia's railroading, as the country nears completion of a modern rail system which links all its major cities.

U. S. Chance Muffed in Test Talks

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government's foreign propaganda chief hints the administration muffed a chance to take the edge off Russia's big nuclear propaganda. He says he'll take steps to see the ball isn't dropped in the future.

The implied criticism of the administration's handling of Moscow's announcement of a halt in Soviet nuclear tests was made in Sunday night by George V. Allen, director of the U.S. Information Agency, on the NBC-TV program commission could hold investigations and examine witnesses under oath; lawyers would be prohibited from representing anyone or any organization which forms racial unrest without having been personally hired; public schools integrated by federal court or would be closed and voters given a chance to decide if they wanted segregation—if they did, the tax money would be divided and given to the students to pay to "private" schools in the form of public schools. The amendment would also require voters to register in their own handwriting.

"To a great many people in the South today, the only thing worse than forced race-mixing is the constant worry about what tomorrow may bring. Once this states right amendment is placed on the ballot and approved by the people of Arkansas, each school district will then have a plan of action to follow within the framework of law and order. Each school district can then continue to have segregated schools and maintain the peace and good order of the community," Johnson said.

DIEFENBAKER FISIS

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UP) — Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker today planned some deep-sea fishing as he enjoyed a brief vacation following his victory in last week's elections. Diefenbaker arrived here Saturday with his wife.

"Met the Press."

Allen said he was on his way back from a trip to the Far East and didn't know about the prospective Soviet announcement until he returned although the State Department already had "a strong indication" the Moscow move was on the way.

"They knew it and I found out when I got back here that they knew it," he said.

Asked if the administration could have done anything "propagandawise" in advance that would have "taken the edge" off Russia's announcement, Allen replied:

"I think maybe there was, myself. It is easy to look back on things now, of course. But it seems to me that we might have."

Quetied by the United Press on what steps might have been taken, Allen said he preferred "not to expand on that any more at this time — it's hashing over things already done."
